On the closest corner:
mark the height of the door;
mark the dimensions of the windows row

Draw receding lines to the vanishing point from these marks.

Vertical lines, drawn between the receding lines will define the windows and the door.

For an arched doorway:
define the top points of the straight part of the doorway by drawing a receding line to the vanishing point.

Mark the highest point of the arch on the center line.
